ıveniles' Fate Up To "Moms," sserts "Mother of the Year"

By The Associated Press

EDAR RAPIDS, Ia., May 10— is responsible for the rising of juvenile delinquency?

ou can lay it right on the rsteps of the mothers, says ear-old Janette Stevenson ray, writer and lecturer who been chosen "American Moth- f 1947."

erself a successful mother of five and grandmother of ten, Mrs. Murray feels that the troubles of teen-agers begin at home, and that proper guidance from mothers could stop them before they start.

Chosen "Iowa Mother of 1947" before the national title was bestowed upon her, Mrs. Murray lays no claim to infallibility herself, insisting:

"I've made mistakes with my own children in the past."

Evidence of Success

The records of her sons and daughters, however, bear testimony to successful guidance from a wise mother. They are:

William, head of Iowa State college's department of economics; Mrs. Geoffrey (Eleanor) Shepherd, former editor in the U. S. state department and a well-known writer; Edward, traveler, writer, former instructor at the University of Constantinople and slated next year for an assistant professorship at Harvard; Mrs. John C. (Janet) Fiske, writer, teacher and wife of a U. S. Naval analyst at the American embassy in Moscow; Winifred, former Wave officer, now a teacher at Monmouth Junior college, Long Branch, N. J.

The mother-of-the-year is the wife of Frederick G. Murray, Cedar Rapids physician whom she married in 1902. Their comfortable, rambling home here was built 42 years ago, with frequent additions to accommodate a growing family.

Mrs. Murray has spent a lifetime fighting for improvements in the field of education, for child welfare, for social and economic gains for the American people. Back in 1915-16, she campaigned for equal suffrage, and in the years since has written hundreds of articles on the subjects closest to her heart. She says:

"It's no longer enough to feed, clothe and educate a child. Mothers today must teach their children the ideals of service to the world."

GREEK AID BILL NOW VIRTUALLY LAW OF LAND

Only Routine Steps Remain as House Approves 287 to 107.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 10—The administration's $400,000,000 Greek-Turkish aid measure was sealed with overwhelming congressional approval today.

Only routine steps remained to start a stream of American men, money and material into two Mediterranean nations to ward off Communist encroachment.

Overriding attempt after attempt to modify its terms, the house early last night joined the senate in endorsing this new peacetime foreign policy, committing United States resources to stabilize internal affairs of countries outside the Western hemisphere.

The house action on final passage came on a roll call vote of 287 to 107.

Coalition Upholds Bill

A coalition of 127 Republicans and 160 Democrats upheld the measure. Against it were recorded 93 Republicans, 13 Democrats, and Rep. Marcantonio of New York, lone house member of the American Labor party. The measure passed the senate April 22 by a vote of 67 to 22.

The bill goes back to the senate now. Presumably a joint house-senate conference committee will be formed to work out the differences.

They are minor, and there appeared little doubt on Capitol Hill that agreement would be reached and the measure sped to President Truman's desk early next week.

Chief difference between the house and senate bill is that the latter carries a preamble stating that the program was in conformity with the spirit of the United Nations charter, and a provision requiring senate confirmation of the chiefs of the missions.

Proposed Two Months Ago

The aid program was asked by President Truman in an extraordinary appearance before a joint session of congress March 12. The state department requested speedy action on the ground that the British were terminating economic aid to Greece March 31.

The house foreign affairs committee found in supporting the bill that both Turkey and Greece were under "external pressure" by Russian-dominated elements.

The forces battling the measure consisted mostly of midwest Republicans and New Deal Democrats. Although ready with a flood of amendments aimed at sharp restrictions, they were unable to budge the bloc composed of Republicans, southern Democrats and down-the-line administration supporters.

Producer George White Freed from Road Gang

By The Associated Press

SAN DIEGO, Calif., May 10—George (Scandals) White, a free man again today after eight and one-half months on a county road gang, reiterated the belief "they done me wrong."

The former New York and Hollywood theatrical producer, 55, claims he was the victim of an unjust sentence for felonious hit-and-run driving.

But Superior Judge Joe L. Shell, who sentenced White last August, commented: "If he feels he didn't get justice, he can go to the grand jury, and I'll go with him."

White was sentenced to one year and fined $600 after pleading guilty to the charge, which involved the deaths of Claude McLester Lee, 42, Santa Ana, Calif., and his bride of a few hours, Leona, 18. White has steadily maintained he dozed at the wheel and had no knowledge of hitting the couple.

AKRON TEACHERS CONSIDER STRIKE

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., May 10 — Akron's 1,300 teachers will decide at a special meeting tomorrow whether they will report for school Monday morning, John C. Griffith, president of the Akron Educational association, announced today.

Seeking a $350 raise this semester, officers of the AEA last night told school board members their group had decided to remain away from classes, if necessary, to obtain their demands.

A session with the school board last night revolved around a plan of the teachers to finance the raise by borrowing against anticipated revenue. The school board did not receive the plan with any enthusiasm.

"We must be legal about this," Dr. Horace W. Butler, board president, declared. The board's counsel, Charles Evans, said he could see no legal way to raise the necessary $600,000 to fiance a raise.

Teachers met Wednesday night to protest failure of a 3.85 mills levy designed to raise salaries. The levy failed of approval by about 2 per cent of the vote in Tuesday's city primary election.

Some 40,000 school children would be affected if the teachers quit their jobs.

RACE COMMISSIONER MUM ON RESIGNATION

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 10—If John Lokar, chairman of the Ohio racing commission and secretary to former Gov. Frank J. Lausche during the Lausche administration has received a letter from Gov. Thomas J. Herbert demanding his resignation, he was giving state officials here the "silent treatment."

Herbert's office announced yesterday the text of a memorandum sent Lokar asking that he remove himself from the post to which he was appointed during the closing days of the Lausche administration.

It said:

"In view of the disclosures in connection with the department of liquor control I consider it inadvisable for you to remain on the racing commission."

Herbert's aides said the letter was released for publication after time had elapsed to enable it to reach Lokar's Cleveland home. But Lokar could not be found last night either here or at Cleveland.

His intimates in Columbus said that they thought he would drive to Columbus today for the opening of the Ohio racing season at Beulah park in Grove City. None had heard from him and Cleveland sources reported that the racing official had not appeared to comment publicly about the matter, nor was he answering his residential telephone.

The governor's letter demanding Lokar's resignation referred apparently to a night club liquor permit issued to Marie Mocilnikar of Gates Mills, Jan. 8, while Lausche still held office.

Other commission members include Preston Hinebaugh of Columbus, a Democrat, and Republicans O. C. Belt of Columbus and I. J. Collins of Lancaster.

Johnson was the opening speaker as the committee resumed debate over the instruction and makeup of the special body.

Final Vote On Labor Sought

Taft Drives for Showdown Decision on Curb Bill Monday.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 10—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) today clung to a hope the senate can reach a final vote Monday on labor legislation, including a brand new bill fashioned by Democrats to win President Truman's approval.

The new measure is sponsored by Senator Murray (D-Mont) and 10 other Democrats. He offered it as a senate session last night as a substitute for the more stringent labor disputes bill backed by Taft, chairman of the senate labor committee.

Murray, a leader of the thus far unsuccessful fight against the Taft bill, told the senate the new measure carries out "all the recommendations" of Mr. Truman on labor legislation, and covers some other matters as well. It is considerably milder than the committee bill which several Democrats have predicted the President would veto.

Introduction of the Murray bill brought an angry protest from Taft, who accused its sponsors of "completely dilatory" tactics in waiting through 11 days of senate debate on labor legislation to introduce the measure.

Taft said he felt he would be "justified" in moving to table the bill, which would have the effect of killing it.

This brought a stormy protest by Democrats. Murray said Taft was being "unfair," Senator Lucas (Ill) said it wasn't "cricket," and Senator Hatch (NM) called it "rather bad taste."

And when Senator Pepper (D-Fla) suggested that maybe Taft had not meant what he said, the Ohioan shot back sharply:

"I meant to say exactly what I said."

Before this scrap, the senate had taken this action on major amendments to the Taft bill:

1. Defeated, 62 to 28, a proposal by Senator Ball (R-Minn) to let private employers seek injunctions against jurisdictional strikes and secondary boycotts.

2. Adopted, 62 to 26, a Taft-backed proposal allowing employers to sue unions for damages resulting from jurisdictional strikes and secondary boycotts.

Taft, Bricker Agree On Labor Bill Proposal

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 10—Ohio's Republican senators Robert A. Taft and John W. Bricker yesterday supported an amendment by Taft to the general labor legislation which would permit employers to sue unions for damages resulting from jurisdictional strikes and secondary boycotts. The amendment was approved 65 to 26.

They split on the Ball amendment to permit individual employers to seek injunctions against jurisdictional strikes and secondary boycotts, which was defeated 62 to 28. Bricker voted for the proposal and Taft against it.

Akron Judge Finds Bingo Arouses His, Jury's "Curiosity"

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., May 10 — Bingo, the game that ends with a happy shout from the winner and groans from the rest of the players, has roused the "curiosity" of Common Pleas Judge Walter B. Wannamaker.

The judge thinks members of the Summit county grand jury should be curious about Bingo, too, when they convene next month, and said so in an address before them yesterday.

He listed the rumors this way:

"One public official has been offered a new car as a gift from bingo operators. Another public official has a place that operates gambling.

"The bingo operators are supposed to be contributing to the American Red Cross, but no one knows for certain."

Certain other rumors in this vicinity, the judge continued, also warrant the jurors' "curiosity."

All business of the Summit county board of health and the conservation department, he declared it was rumored, finds its way to a single justice of the peace.

And in neighboring Boston Heights, rumors are that certain officials charge "a substantial fee for the operation of a large bingo layout," said Judge Wannamaker.

BYSTANDER WOUNDED IN OHIO GUN BATTLE

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., May 10 — Bullets whirred in a crowded downtown coffee house early today as police intercepted four masked gunmen, and in the confusion one customer was seriously wounded.

Another man, identified as one of the four frustrated robbers by Police Capt. James McArthur, was nicked in the leg. He and his three companions were captured.

Alerted by the coffee house proprietor, McArthur said he saw the gunmen's lookout run inside as he arrived. The ensuing gunfight happened this way, he said:

Peering around a partition at the rear, McArthur was fired at by one of the quartet making a break for the door. McArthur fired back, hitting the man in the right leg.

One bullet in the crossfire struck John Harigasian, 48, passing through his abdomen. Hospital attaches described his conditions as serious.

McArthur said two of the captured men were from Youngstown, the others from Cleveland's South Side.

Russia Accepts U.S. Proposals for Korea

By The Associated Press

LONDON, May 10—The Moscow radio said today that Russia has accepted certain American proposals for consulting Korean representatives concerning the formation of a provisional government in Korea.

The broadcast said the acceptance was contained in a letter from Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov to Secretary of State George C. Marshall, who had hinted earlier that unless Russia specifically agreed to consult all Korean political elements on the question the United States might boycott a scheduled May 20 meeting of the joint U. S.-Soviet commission in Seoul.

G.O.P. CHIEFS HOLD MEETING

Convene Informally To Talk Up 48 Candidates, Current Issues.

By The Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS, May 10—Republican leaders from 17 midwest and far west states moved today from informal overnight lobby talk about a 1948 presidential candidate into a closed business session for a discussion of current issues in congress.

Spokesmen for the group's policy committee predicted resolutions would be adopted before nightfall on such timely questions as tax reduction, budget-cutting, labor legislation and aid to Greece and Turkey.

Influential With Party

The group, comprising G.O.P. state chairmen for 13 midwestern states and four Rocky Mountain states, has been influential in party policy planning in the past.

Harry Crane of Topeka, acting state chairman for Kansas, a member of the midwest group's policy committee, said there would be no formal views expressed on a presidential candidate for 1948.

But there was plenty of speculation about 1948 among the members in hotel rooms last night.

2 Names Crop Up

Two names that cropped up, in addition to the most-mentioned "Big Four" of Gov. Thomas Dewey of New York; Senators Robert A. Taft and Arthur H. Vandenberg and former Minnesota Governor Harold E. Stassen were General Dwight D. Eisenhower, army chief of staff, and Rep. Charles Halleck of Indiana, Republican leader of the U. S. house of representatives.

Most of the larger states had their favorite sons and if all those mentioned go to the convention were at Philadelphia a little more than a year from now there will have to be considerable jockeying to get a winner.

PEACH, APPLE DAMAGE HEAVY

Believe Over Half of Crop Destroyed; Widespread Loss in Ohio.

Frost struck a third blow at fruit blossoms in the Marion and Central Ohio areas last night, leaving in its white wake frozen cherry, plum and early apple buds.

As Marion county fruit growers looked over their orchards today, their estimates of frost damage varied from slight to severe. It generally was believed that between 50 and 75 per cent of the county's peach and early apple crop is gone, the result of three consecutive nights of below freezing temperatures.

Some Strawberry Damage

Also reported to have received some damage are early strawberry plants, although most of the crop is not believed to have been affected, since many plants still are not in bloom.

Some damage also was reported to new clover seedings, although other field crops have not been affected by the cold wave and freezing weather.

Last night's low temperature here was 31 degrees, the same as Thursday night.

The statewide low was 19 degrees at Williamsport, near East Liverpool, and observers in many sections of the state declared fruit a complete loss, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Columbus.

Archibald Van Doren, associate horticulture professor at Ohio State university, reported last night's cold was the worst of the season, damaging all fruit.

New Records

Throughout the state, cold records for May were broken. It was the coldest May temperature in 54 years of local observations at Williamsport, with a previous bottom reached May 5, 1900. The official weather recorder in North Canton gave the low as 21, with a downtown Canton mark of 25 degrees. Previous low for the date since they began keeping records in 1895 was 29 in 1923.

Some relief appeared in sight, U. S. Meteorologist George Mindling in Columbus forecast not so cold for tonight and sunny and warmer for Sunday.

JET PILOT GUNS FOR PREAKNESS VICTORY

By The Associated Press

BALTIMORE, May 10 — Jet Pilot, the front running flyer from Maine Chance farm, and 10 challengers who aren't quite sure about that Kentucky Derby business, are slated to shoot for the $138,140 Preakness pot today, but they really ought to let the weather man be an added starter.

With a record Pimlico crowd of around 45,000 predicted for Maryland's premier turf classic, so much seems to depend upon whether it rains or shines that the weather man has been quoted more than the trainers. So maybe the railbirds should have the chance to look the man over.

Now, everybody knows that the Jet job won the Derby in off-footing because he seems to like the stuff. And the general idea is that he won't do so well over a fast strip in the mile and three-sixteenths Preakness—which is a sixteenth shorter than the Derby—because of half a dozen speed horses in the field.

Little wonder, then, that the weather man is an important gent hereabouts and that his prediction of "sunny and warmer" for this afternoon gladdened several heart.

If 11 starts, the gross purse will be slightly less than for the 1946 Preakness, when the $139,620 pot made it the world's richest horse race.

Gangsters Keep Away from Big Jim's County

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

BENTON, Ill., May 10 — Jim Pritchard likes to sit in his small inner office in the old Franklin county courthouse and watch the townspeople go by.

Hal Boyle

"Hullo, Jim," they say.

"How're you, neighbor?" says Jim.

Big Jim Pritchard has fought in two wars, but his local renown lies in the belief he is the toughest county sheriff in an area where toughness is a virtue—the southern Illinois coal mining region.

Big Jim used to be a baseball pitcher and boxer and is built like a pouter pigeon — mostly chest. His head is slowly balding. His voice is slow and mild but his eyes are as cold as a couple of brown marbles. At 47 Jim—if he really gets mad—still prefers to toss away his gun and take his prisoners with his fists.

But townsfolk like best to tell of how Big Jim—who caught a piece of shrapnel and a Purple Heart in France in the First World War—put the rope on Charlie Birger, most notorious gangster ever to reign in the coal fields underworld.

Birger, a flamboyant figure who liked to push burning cigarets into the flesh of people he had nominated for a ride, ruled vice, gambling and bootlegging in eight Illinois counties when Pritchard took office in 1926.

Big Jim sent him word:

"Stay out of my county or I'll hang you or kill you."

Answers with Murder

Birger answered by sending two teen-age brothers over to murder the mayor of West City, which adjoins Benton. He paid the boys $150—$50 for each bullet they put into the mayor.

Jim got his first real evidence when one boy, imprisoned for a holdup, tattled in revenge after Birger's gunmen shot to death the other brother for knowing too much. Pritchard and other law enforcement officers kept checking for months until they uncovered thirteen murders by the Birger gang. Among the victims were a state highway patrolman and his pregnant wife.

His case complete, Big Jim rode over alone to the county where Birger lived and called him to the door.

Knew Gangman Was Coward

"I've got the place surrounded," he said. He had studied Birger long enough to feel he knew what the gangster would do in a tight place. He was right. Birger gave up.

On the morning of April 19, 1928, jaunty again after collapsing in his cell, Birger stood on a scaffold by the Benton county jail. Tickets for the hanging sold for $15—unofficially. Charlie shook hands with everybody around the trapdoor but Pritchard.

"Him and I just never got along at all," recalled Big Jim.

They put the rope around Birger's neck, he looked up and said, "It's a wonderful world"—and then he just dropped right out of it. Big Jim had kept his promise. The gang was smashed.

Other Gang Wiser

Pritchard sent word to the four Shelton brothers running a rival gang his same ultimatum: "Stay out of my county or I'll hang you or kill you." They withdrew.

You can't succeed yourself as sheriff in this county, that's what the law says. Big Jim was out of politics when the second World War came along so he enlisted as a seaman. He served on convoy duty in the Atlantic and did naval intelligence.

He came back to run for office and led the ticket. He gets $2,600 salary and $2,400 expenses annually.

"Yes, I enjoy it," he said, easing his 6-foot-1-inch frame back into his cane-bottomed chair. "The longer you're a peace officer the better you like it. You get a kick out of outmaneuvering the other fellow. This county is clean of racketeering, and it's going to stay clean."

Big Jim is the one county sheriff with whom the gangsters want no return engagement. He's too rough.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Anemia

Until recent years, a diagnosis of pernicious anemia meant just one thing—death. There was nothing—absolutely nothing—even the best of doctors could do to save a patient with this disorder.

Today, however, the picture is quite different. The disease itself remains incurable but if it is recognized before permanent damage has been done, the patient can not only be kept alive, but well and active.

Thus, because the stakes are so great, it is important to know that pernicious anemia is a disease that creeps up on a person very slowly and gradually, usually after the age of 30 years.

Weakness is often the first symptom noted and for a long time it may be the only one. In about one-third of the patients, however, indigestion is also an early complaint. This killer may signal its approach by nothing more than mild attacks of diarrhea from time to time. Constipation is also common and often there is an excessive amount of gas in the stomach and bowel.

At first there is no great loss of weight but the surface of the tongue often becomes smoothed out and red, and the liver is enlarged. As the condition progresses, there may be some numbness and tingling of the hands and feet and in the later stages of the disorder there may be actual paralysis.

In pernicious anemia there seems to be an excessive destruction of the blood's red cells. As fast as they can be manufactured in the red bone marrow, the red cells are broken up and killed off. In an effort to make good this wholesale slaughter of important red cells, the bone marrow begins to release red cells before they are ready. Thus numbers of abnormal and immature cells are found in the blood stream. At the same time the number of white cells is also decreased. Hence an examination of the blood will tell whether pernicious anemia exists or not.

Whenever this disease is suspected the contents of the stomach should be tested, too since, in pernicious anemia the amount of acid is reduced.

Of recent years, we have learned that this formerly fatal disease is due to lack of a certain substance known as the intrinsic factor. This substance is found in large amounts in liver and liver extract. Thus, so long as the pernicious anemia patient is supplied with the missing substance through doses of liver extract, he gets along well. The treatment, however, can never be stopped but must be continued throughout life.

According to Dr. George R. Minot of Boston, after the patient's blood has been returned to normal by means of treatment with liver extract, a dose of 15 units of liver extract given every two weeks suffices in most cases to keep the blood normal.

When the condition is severe it may be necessary to give injections of whole blood into a vein. However, such treatment is only necessary at the beginning, and later on the use of the liver extract serves to keep the patient in normal condition.

TALK FINANCING FOR LARUE WATER WORKS

Special to The Star

LARUE—Formation of a stock company to finance the construction of a water works plant for the village at LaRue was discussed at a meeting of the Business Men's association at McMahan's restaurant Thursday evening.

Dr. J. C. Tuma gave a report of a committee which met with the village council Monday night to hear engineers discuss the proposed plans. The association plans to make a survey of the town to find the number of homes desiring service and the possible cost of installation to subscribers.

In March the council indefinately postponed a proposal to construct a village owned plant because of the excessive cost of materials and labor at this time. A preliminary survey already had been made by Alden Stilson, engineering firm of Columbus, from funds advanced by the federal government for the survey. The plant would have cost $130,000 and would have required a bond issue to cover one-half the cost.

After hearing from the engineers Monday evening that the property valuation of the village would not permit the selling of bonds to the extent of $130,000 to finance a village owned plant, the council solicited the aid of citizens in forming a private corporation to carry the project. It was reported at the council meeting Monday that a capital stock of $50,000 would be necessary to organize for the proposed plant. It is estimated that approximately 150 homes would become users of the water in addition to several business firms, three churches and the school.

The Business Men's association voted a gift of $25 to the Henkle Memorial library and also decided to co-sponsor, along with the Sportsmen's club, a boy from the junior class of the LaRue High school to Boys State at Ohio Wesleyan university in June. The American Legion here is sponsoring a boy from the same class to go to the camp at Delaware. The Legion will choose the two boys on recommendation of the high school faculty.

THE first of a series of pre-nuptial social affairs complimenting Miss Doris Weber, a bride-elect of June, was given last evening when Miss Mary Ann Houghton and Miss Helen Louise Rhu entertained with a shower and bridge at the home of Miss Houghton's aunt, Mrs. Frank M. Foster of 396 East Church street. The hostesses chose the bride-elect's colors, green and white, and spring bloom for their decorations. A cluster of green balloons suspended from an archway with white ribbons were pierced by the honor guest to disclose directions for finding her gifts of china hidden throughout the rooms and for the table at which Miss Weber and her mother, Mrs. C. V. Weber presided, the centerpiece was an arrangement of cherry blossoms, foliage and lighted tapers. Bridge awards were won by Mrs. Donald K. Stull and Miss Virginia Walker. Miss Weber will become the bride of James Edward Elliott of Columbus on June 15.

Miss Elaine Alexander entertained with a shower complimenting Miss Mozelle Haas, Thursday evening at her home at 863 Sheridan road. Miss Haas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Haas of 873 Davids street, will become the bride of Ralph Benson of Fredericktown Sunday in Oakland Evangelical and Reformed church.

Blue and white, Miss Haas' wedding colors, were used to carry out a decorative theme. A shower parasol and a low bowl filled with white flowers decorated the table. Contest awards were won by Miss Haas and Miss Grace Cyders. The hostess was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Lester Alexander. Guests aside from the contest winners were Mrs. Herman Haas, Mrs. Ruth Axthelm, Mrs. Harold James, Misses Mary McCaulley, Avonelle Spicer, Dorothy Bolander, Charlotte Caldwell, Grace Crizer and Dolores Alexander.

Mrs. Anna Morrison received first honors and Mrs. Margaret Thornberg second and floating awards at a meeting of the Miracle Pinochle club Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ethel Richards of North Grand avenue. Mrs. Verlae Young received the mystery box award and Mrs. Garnet Russell was consoled.

Mrs. W. P. Mahaffey of Olney avenue entertained with a bridge and shower Thursday evening complimenting Mrs. Paul B. Meinerding whose wedding of April 15 was announced recently. Bouquets of tulips and hyacinths were used throughout the rooms and in the diningroom the table was centered with red tulips and lighted with white tapers in crystal holders. Awards in bridge were won by Mrs. Gains L. Rush, Mrs. Mae Seckel and Mrs. Carl Werley. Mrs. Meinerding, who was formerly Miss Bertha Major, was presented a gift from the group. The honor guest presided at the table for refreshments.

BUCYRUS CANCELS 1947 COUNTY FAIR

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, May 10 — Because labor and material has not been available for replacing the county fairgrounds into condition for county fair purposes, the 1947 county fair has been cancelled. That announcement was made today by Fred Hocker, fair board secretary and spokesman for the board.

A junior fair for displaying 4-H club work and other junior projects will be held, it was announced.

Decision to cancel the county fair, which was to have been the first since 1939, was reached at a meeting of the board Thursday night.

The county resumed control of the fairgrounds last year after the Army relinquished the grounds, in use as an Army training camp since 1940. Also returned to the county were most of the buildings erected by the government for camp purposes plus $20,000 damages. The county has a balance of $49,264 after paying for expenses of a sale, caretakers, sewers and miscellaneous items. An additional $10,000 was turned over to the fair board to use in reconditioning the grounds.

Obituary

★George LeRoy Stoner was born in Delaware county, June 12, 1891 and departed from this life at his home south of Marion, April 30, 1947 at the age of 55 years, 10 months and 18 days. He was one of the seven children of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Stoner. He was united in marriage to Eva Mae Cook, March 6, 1918 in Marion, Ohio. He became a member of the St. Joseph's Reformed church of Waldo in August 1918 and was a charter member of the Y. P. A. class and also a member of the C.I.O. No. 750. He had been failing in health the past four years and was taken seriously ill April 28.

He leaves to mourn, his wife and three children—Mrs. Paul E. Roberts, Martha and Darrell, and one granddaughter, Marilyn Ann Roberts, and the following sisters and brothers: Mrs. George McPherson, Mrs. Fred E. Mutton, Mrs. Frank Lindley, Ralph and Ernest Stoner. Father and mother and one sister preceded him in death. He also leaves a host of relatives, neighbors and friends.

Kind hands ministered to him constantly but with no avail. It is God's Way, His Will Be Done. The mystery which, try as we may, we cannot understand.

We saw him fade, as does a leaf,
Beneath the touch of death's cold hand,
Our sobs brought no relief.
The message came, at God's command
Now our last farewell we bid you,
And for strength and wisdom pray,
Slumber sweetly, dearest father,
Till the Resurrection Day.
Fold him, Father, in Thine arms
And let him henceforth be
A messenger of love between
Our human hearts and Thee.

The Family.

Card of Thanks

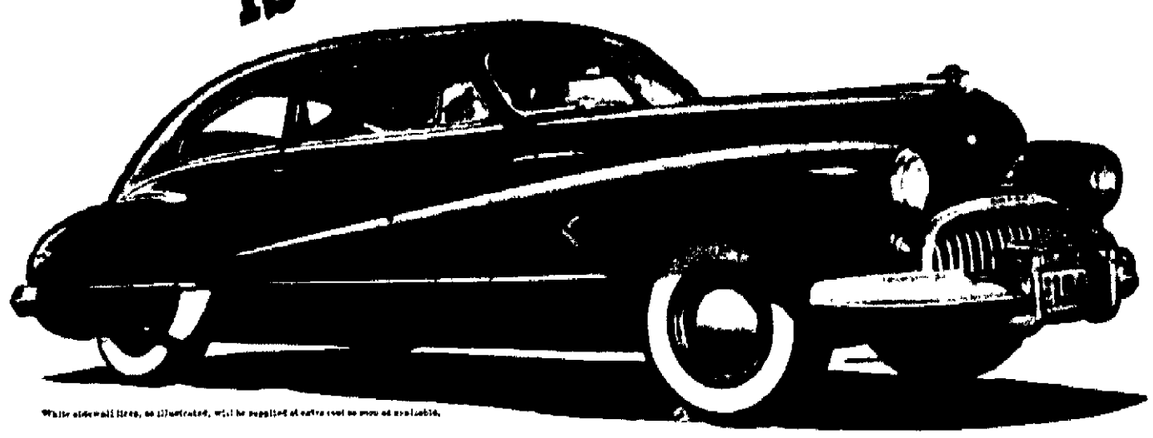
Every Line is a look at Tomorrow


While sidewall lines, as illustrated, will be supplied at extra cost as soon as available.

You spot it on the highway every time a Buick comes along:

Here you meet the future face-to-face.

Here you see the clean, rich, uncluttered design that marks the swing away from what was to what is going to be.

Here's the sweep and flow of fender line that's called for by a streamlined age — here's the solid, steady look that spells roadability — the broad beam that means room — the massive bonnet that tells of Fireball power aplenty.

Here's grace, here's ability, here's sturdy dependability — all wrapped up in one handsome package that's not merely up-to-the-times but ahead of it.

Here are the good looks that bespeak good works; you hardly have to be told of precisions carried to ten-thousandths of an inch, of materials searched out from the finest to be found.

Any wonder that such a creation is America's most wanted automobile? Any wonder people pass up cars that may be easier to get to wait for a car that's going to stay fresh and new and modern-looking?

The simple fact is that you're buying in the future when you buy any good car today.

Why not settle on the one that most obviously foretells what the future will be — that has the most in it of what is to come?

Buick dealers' showrooms are kept pretty bare of display models by the eagerness of Buick buyers to "take over" the first minute they can.

But you'll be greeted in every one of them with courtesy and sincere interest in getting your Buick at the first minute possible.

Drop in — talk it over — and insure yourself a happy future by placing your order now. We'll take it, with or without a car to trade.

SATURDAY, MAY 10, 1947

Mother's Day

TOMORROW will be Mother's Day, observed by almost everyone in the land in one way or another. With some it's the giving of a gift or doing the dishes; with others it's a pilgrimage to a grave or a few moments of meditation.

Mother's Day first was proclaimed in South Dakota in 1909 and in 1913 was made nation-wide by congressional resolution. The composite mother has changed in those 38 years. Mother votes now. She has many new appliances to help her with household tasks. She may yet keep busy from morning to night but there is less drudgery in her work.

However, it is in the economic field that the change has been greatest. More mothers are employed nowadays than ever before, but most mothers with young children still stay home. A survey by the U. S. Women's Bureau in 1946 showed that of 16,000,000 employed women, only five per cent were mothers of children under 6 with the husband in the household. However, 22 per cent of mothers with children between 5 and 18 were employed.

One thing hasn't changed. Women still marry earlier than men. Eighty-one per cent of the men still were single at 21 but only 54 per cent of the women. At 25, 41 per cent of the men still were unmarried but only 28 per cent of the women.

The foregoing statistics are apart from the usual encomiums which accrue to mothers this day. The facts are offered in lieu of a generalized laudation of mothers as a group. Each mother has her special merits, her individual charms, her vital role in family life. Let it be granted to each to enjoy this day according to her lights.

Appropriations Hysteria

DEMANDS for additions of millions of dollars to Ohio's record-high appropriations bill of $584,797,430, plus yelps of anguish from the interior department's budget-slashed bureaucrats are signs of a kind of hysteria that comes over public spenders whenever appropriation bills are being considered.

At least one-third could be lopped off any appropriation bill without hurting essential public services one-hundredth of one per cent of one iota. It is desirable to remember this whenever appropriation bills are pending, because public spenders insist that government will fall if as little as 10 cents is taken away.

Public spenders, like pigs, will eat all they can get, which always is more than the public can afford to give them. When this bad news is broken to them, however, they always go into hysterics about starving the public services. In other words, rumors to the contrary notwithstanding, Ohio and the United States both will survive if the spenders get a few millions or billions less than they want.

Power To Burn

THE NAVY no longer can look to Mahan and the other classical authorities on sea warfare. It has to write its texts as it goes along and trust that its theories are sound. To carry out its research it has organized a radiological and atomic warfare section. The day now may be near when the battleship will be supplanted by the guided missile ship.

Meanwhile, army engineers are investigating the subterranean facilities used by the Germans during the war with a view to using their ideas in plans for underground homes, factories and even chemurgical gardens and livestock pastures.

If all the energy going into exploration of the wartime possibilities of atomic power were utilized on its peacetime application, a thimbleful of coal not only might drive the Queen Mary across the Atlantic; it also might heat all our cities for the next generation with enough ergs left over to operate an interplanetary excursion service.

No Action Yet

IT HAS BEEN six weeks since President Truman announced his loyalty test for government employes, but not a single communist, fascist or other subversive character has been discovered or fired from his job. The reason is that the budget bureau still is trying to estimate the cost and which departments shall do the work.

The difficulty seems to be that nearly everybody has a finger in the loyalty test pie and no individual or agency has authority to lay out a specific program and proceed with it.

To the casual observer it would seem the task would rightfully be that of the justice department, but it has been so lax in bringing to book communists cited for contempt of congress that any subversionist would be eligible for a civil service pension before he got the boot.

Did You Know?

In 1939 the world's shipping was approximately 45 per cent coal burning, 30 per cent oil burning and 25 per cent Diesel as compared with 27 per cent coal, 56 per cent oil and 17 per cent Diesel today.

Unemployment Threat Not Viewed with Alarm.

SOME current pessimism about business conditions later this year is due to a belief that increased unemployment means general loss of purchasing power. In most depressions of the past, that has been true. Unemployment meant a lower volume of buying, reduced production and general depression.

The situation in 1947 however includes a number of unusual factors which may sustain general purchasing power despite a considerable decline in employment.

The United States Employment Service, whose predictions have been generally correct over the past six years, says that 58,000,000 will be employed this summer. That would equal the all-time record of a year ago.

Drop Likely in Fall.

It is generally anticipated, however, that after Labor Day agriculture will release 3,000,000 workers, some of whom will be absorbed in other fields. There will be other causes of unemployment, such as a slackening of exports and a declining production of machine tools. The most reliable estimates that I know indicate an increase in unemployment this fall of something over 2,000,000. That will mean a total of more than 4,000,000 unemployed.

Despite this loss of jobs, there may be no considerable decline of over-all purchasing power. Wage increases have been given in many lines, including steel and automobiles. Moreover, it is to be expected that food prices will decline. Taken together these factors are likely to increase the real purchasing power of the mass of the people over 5 per cent during the next six months.

Production Improvement Seen.

There will be other favorable factors. It is likely that there will be better utilization of plants, a higher rate of production per man hour of work and more volume of sales at lower prices. There will be more new automobiles, more traveling and more vacationing.

Unexpected events may upset this favorable anticipation. Prospects for helpful legislation in government finances and in labor may run into political snags. A further bid for power by labor leaders may come. And foreign affairs may darken still more. But there are possibilities, not probabilities.

Difficult Prophecies

Economic conditions constantly change. The factors mentioned above which can sustain purchasing power against the first impact of unemployment may be temporary. What remains to be seen is whether this stimulus will, by the turn of the year, have reversed the unemployment trend. If that proves to be true, 1948 may repeat 1947, despite the uncertainties which almost always come in a presidential year. But few are rash enough to project their prophecies so far ahead.

Just a Minute

Never a Cover or Clinic Charge

During the recent smallpox scare in New York, one of the city's night spots offered free vaccinations to its patrons.

It is believed to be the first time in history that cafe society has gone out for the purpose of becoming inoculated rather than inebriated.

Previously, the only men in white in night clubs have been the pastry chefs.

Oh, of course, they did occasionally get to practice artificial respiration on customers who stayed over-long on the dance floor. And there has always been a bottle of ammonia handy to revive out-of-towners after the check was presented.

But the clinical influence, thus introduced, may revolutionize the entertainment field. Soon, every self-respecting dine-and-dance spot may be offering favors for the ladies and blood tests for the men. Masters of ceremonies may have to take the oath of Hippocrates as well as swear allegiance to Petrillo. And night club photographers may even go in for X-ray rather than candid shots.

You could check your hat or your metabolism at the door, get a transfusion or a dry martini at the bar, and every head-waiter would be taught how to administer penicillin as well as extinguish a baked Alaska.

Yes sir, medicine would really take on a new appeal if young physicians were able to put in their internships at the Copacabana or Diamond Horse-shoe.

Lend-Lease Revival Needed

By WALTER LIPPMANN

WHAT Undersecretary of State Acheson said in his address before the Delta Council about Germany and Japan was incidental and subordinate to his main theme: That in the next few months, certainly within 12 months, the United States will have to reestablish in some form or other lend-lease at the rate of not less than $5,000,000,000 annually for several years to come.

Acheson did not put it so bluntly, feeling constrained no doubt by the political habits of Washington, which demand that the people be treated gingerly and as not adult enough for the whole truth all at once, and that it is less painful to cut off the dog's tail by inches.

Nevertheless, Acheson did manage to indicate the scope of the whole problem which will have to be met if a catastrophic collapse of the European standard of life is to be averted, and if America is not to become isolated in an angry world and itself the sufferer of a chronic depression.

The administration will never regret that it commissioned Acheson to make this speech. The warning signals have been raised while there is still time to avert a collapse. If the measures which it calls for are taken, they may carry the world over the hump of danger and into a time of reconstruction and of peace.

That a world crisis is developing, which will come to its climax not later than the latter part of 1948, is one of those predictions which only a miracle—that cannot happen—could confound.

Present Rate

The world is now drawing goods from the United States at the rate of $16,000,000,000 annually. A very small part of these goods may be luxuries and comforts which could be dispensed with.

Practically all of this huge export consists of commodities which are absolutely necessary to sustain an exceedingly low standard of life abroad. They are not really sufficient to maintain more than a bare subsistence level of existence for the masses of the people abroad.

Without them there would be actual famine, not merely malnutrition as there is today, and social anarchy in many parts of the world.

Half of these exports the foreign countries are able to pay for with goods and services they have worked to produce. The other half—about $8,000,000,000—are not being paid for now out of their earnings. A little over $1,000,000,000 they are paying for out of their dwindling reserves of dollars and gold.

Another $2,000,000,000 or thereabouts are being covered by remittances of Americans to friends and relatives abroad and by private investments abroad. The remainder—about $5,000,000,000—is coming out of funds provided by the United States government—in direct relief, through credits of the Export-Import Bank through the Bretton Woods institutions and the British loan.

There will still be available under authorizations and commitments already made by the United States government about $4,500,000,000 for 1948. But the world need for American exports cannot diminish in 1948. The losses this year from the terrible weather in Europe mean there is no possibility of the need diminishing until there have been two good harvests. The financial resources of Europe are, however, declining: The small reserves of gold and dollars are nearly used up, and cannot be replenished. Therefore, it is—one may say—a mathematical certainty that in the second half of 1948—as American government loans and grants-in-aid are used up—that a crisis of famine and unemployment will develop. No means will exist—unless the United States government appropriates new money—to pay for the American exports that the world cannot do without.

Crisis Will Come

As a matter of fact the social and political crisis will develop before the last dollar has been used up. None of the great governments involved — the British and the French particularly—can wait until the day when—on the mathematical calculation — the crisis actually exists. They must anticipate it as the British did this winter in their withdrawal from Greece and Turkey.

If we wait with our measures until their dollars are exhausted, they will have to take radical measures at home and abroad before all their dollars are exhausted.

There is, therefore, not much time left in which to plan the policy and prepare the measures that the situation, outlined by Acheson, will unavoidably require.

The administration will do well to address itself to the adult and informed population of the United States and to assume that the American people would rather hear the truth than be jazzed up and needled by rhetoric, and that they are presented with a well-prepared plan for discharging their duty.

"The administration," says James Reston, New York Times Washington correspondent, in what I am sure is a true report, "is not happy about the emotional response here and abroad to the military and ideological aspects of the Truman doctrine."

The emotional response was bound to be bad because the emotional content of the "doctrine" was not enlightening but inflammatory. In the immense task, which lies ahead, of devising adequate measures in time to pacify and reconstruct the civilized world, the rhetoric of the Truman message is something to be avoided.

The tone and temper of the Marshall, Dulles and Acheson speeches are something to be adhered to.

STALINGRAB

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Monday, May 10, 1937.

Dick Merrill and Jack Lambie landed in England, 21 hours and two minutes after their takeoff from Floyd Bennett field in New York the preceding day. They were to be back by Thursday with pictures of the coronation of King George VI. In London the young Duke of Norfolk, earl marshal of England, was crowned with a pasteboard imitation as understudy to his monarch in a final "make-believe" ceremony in Westminster abbey, bringing to a close months of careful preparation for the coronation the following Wednesday.

Charles Franklin Layman, 82 one of Marion's oldest shoemakers, died at the home of a son, O. F. Layman of Uncapher avenue.

Virginia Thaxton, a junior at Thomas A. Edison Junior High school, was elected May queen by a vote of the student body.

Mrs Frank E. Thomas of Harding Highway E was hostess when the Ben Hur Literary society closed the season.

David R. Livingston returned from Chicago where he attended the furniture markets and selected merchandise for the opening of his store on East Center street at a later date.

Mrs. Gladys Arter was installed as president at a meeting of the Greenwood P.-T. A.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Tuesday, May 10, 1927.

Anxiety was felt over the fate of Captain Charles Nungesser, France's foremost aviator, and his companion in a trans-Atlantic flight Captain Francis Coli, who had taken off from Paris Sunday morning in an attempt to fly non-stop to New York. The two fliers had disappeared and no trace of them was ever found.

Mrs. Ruth Brown Snyder, who with her lover, Henry Judd Gray, had been found guilty of the murder of her husband, Albert Snyder, was in a state of collapse in her cell at the Queens county jail, Long Island City, N. Y. following the jury's verdict. Gray, prayer book in hand, accepted the verdict stoically. They were to be sentenced to death in the electric chair the following Monday, a sentence which was carried into execution several months later.

The first batch of notices for collection of delinquent personal taxes in Marion county was mailed out by C. R. Randles of Columbus, who was under contract with the county commissions to collect the delinquencies which totaled approximately $40,000.

Mrs. Mary Rhoads, Mrs. C. C. Fye and Miss Katherine Darmody gave reports of the convention of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs at a meeting of the Tuesday Study club in the home of Mrs. A. L. Bintz on East Center street.

Shoreline

By The United Press

BOSTON—Each year, the Atlantic ocean is eating away from five to eight feet of Massachusett's shoreline, and the state legislature is considering a $1,000,000 project to repair such losses. Investigation revealed that at Duxbury the shoreline has retreated 250 feet in the last century.

The Rutting Season

By JOSEPH ALSOP

WASHINGTON, May 10—The danger to the United States today (a very real, very grim danger) is that the pattern-setting crises in domestic and foreign affairs will almost certainly occur in the next 18 months. These are also the 18 months before the presidential election, when even the wisest political leaders habitually behave like moose in the rutting season. And it is already apparent that this misfortune of timing will adversely influence decisions on the great issues in which the national welfare and perhaps the national survival are directly involved.

If the worst happens, three crises, closely interrelated, will come in rather rapid succession. First, there will be a labor crises, when the government loses control of the coal mines on June 30, and John L. Lewis can have his full-scale strike at last. Second, the coal strike will usher in the widely anticipated shakedown, recession or depression in this country. And third, the slow and painful effort to bring order out of postwar chaos in the rest of the world will thus be stopped dead. This must result from the combined effects of still more stringent coal starvation, bad times in the United States and the worldwide shortage of dollar exchange which is already inexorably developing.

Everybody Puzzled.

Neither President Truman, nor the government economists nor the Republican wiseacres have the vaguest notion what to do about the danger of an economic shakedown resulting from the present inflation of domestic prices. But this will not be so serious, if the other, entirely preventable dangers can somehow be warded off.

A prolonged coal strike would be catastrophic. Equally catastrophic would be a sudden worldwide shortage of the dollars with which every other nation is buying desperately needed food and equipment for reconstruction in this country. Neither the coal strike nor the dollar exchange crises needs to occur. But at present, both are being invited rather than prevented. It is this which makes the future seem so ominous to the rather small group of administration officials who have not fallen into the habit of mumbling nervously, "Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof." The more alert are already predicting that exchange difficulties will cause even Canada and Mexico to put controls on their imports from this country. But despite their appalling implications, these forecasts fall on deaf ears.

The political causes of this paralysis in the face of great dangers have become all too obvious in the labor debate now going on in the senate.

The conservative Republican cry is for an omnibus labor bill, in one package including both severe and moderate amendments to the existing laws. Whatever measure passes the senate, it must be blended in conference with the house labor bill.

The blend must be a punitive measure. This President Truman will not sign. And a Truman veto is actually what the conservative Republicans want. Even so sensible a man as Senator Taft has pointed out, with ill-concealed glee, that the President will then have the "blame" for the failure to pass labor legislation at this session. Nor is this the worst of it.

A clause in the senate bill on which the whole labor committee achieved unanimity (even including Senator Pepper) was the clause imposing a 60-day cooling-off period and giving the government other powers to deal with such nationwide strikes as that threatening in coal. This clause is the essential baby which the more conservative Republicans expect that the President will have to throw out with the unwanted bath. And the blinder and more short-sighted of them are actually planning, after the President has sent his veto to congress, to press their supposed advantage further. The general idea is that the President will then be forced to choose between a humiliating retraction of his veto, or a congressional refusal to grant him powers to deal with the hopeless intransigeance of Lewis and the coal operators. That will be playing with fire indeed.

Political Complications.

In other areas also signs of petty electoral politics are now discernible to the informed eye. The pressure upon Senator Vandenberg from the stupider Republicans, who want to break down the bi-partisan foreign policy, results from the Republican fear that President Truman is gaining political benefits from this vital arrangement. Equally, the administration's reluctance to strengthen the bi-partisan foreign policy is not uninfluenced by the belief, common throughout the Democratic high command, that Senator Vandenberg is a likely Republican candidate. The annoyance shown when Senator Vandenberg unilaterally offered his United Nations amendment to the Greek-Turkey aid bill was plainly given an extra edge by this expectation.

"The Hat" and the Checkup

Ex-Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York, noted foe of horse racing and now a radio commentator, has been in the hospital two days for a checkup and nothing has been found radically wrong. This is good news to racing and foe like him or not, he is one of the big shows in America, not barring Ringling Bros., Hank Wallace, the Rodeo and the Danbury Fair.

The Mayor in a hospital must have been a problem, and we hear that while he came out fine many of the examining doctors are in bad shape.

Our scout informs us that the checkup was something like this:

1—Fiorello arrives for going-over, his first act touching off the sirens. They got him to take off his clothes by telling him he is to be fitted for a fireman's uniform.

2—Upon realizing the truth he insists upon a check of the medical staff to make sure there is no Tammany doctor on it.

3—He insists upon a dismissal of a nurse named Miss "Betts."

4—The preliminaries having been satisfactorily arranged, the physicians line up and parade to his bedside headed by a brass band playing "From the Halls of Montezuma."

5—He is asked to stick out his tongue but refuses to do so until there is the customary commercial.

6—His blood pressure rises on a news item that 50,000 people are at a race track.

7—His eyes are examined. It is found that he sees spots, ten-cent fares and conspiracy against the people.

8—Ear examination. Hearing found okay except in presence of anybody with a contrary opinion.

9—A doctor is thrown out for suggesting he has "hay" fever, but is reinstated on proof that he said nothing about oats.

10—His nerves are checked. Verdict: Terribly excited by criticism, bingo, real estate owners, money lenders and anybody losing $1 on a horse.

11—He's found allergic to roulette, Frank Erickson, department stores and the press.

12—Heart examination. All goes well up to the point where the doctors say he has a heart as strong as "a horse."

13—X-ray tests. Suspicious spot found to be a fireman's badge pinned to inside of shirt.

14—Lung check. Fiorello halts this summary with the declaration, "If they're good enough for my radio sponsor they're good enough for you and me."

15—Great disturbance in examination room. He hears doctors ask nurse to see the CHART. Thinks the Racing Form people have put something over.

16—Physician asks about two blankets ordered for Mayor's bed. Nurse replies "They're off." Fiorello charges Belmont Park is intruding on the checkups.

17—Ex-Mayor leaps out of bed in a hot temper and calls whole thing off. It seems a nurse enters with some X-ray plates and when he inquires "What's that?" gets the reply "It's a PHOTO!"

All Is Revealed

By TRUMAN TWILL

Sometimes, while leafing through the pages of almost any popular publication, a mere man wonders whether the illusions of yesteryear about the female sex.

On every other page is an illustration of a lady strapping herself into a harness scientifically designed to do what nature neglected, and on the pages in between are illustrations of ladies displaying contraptions to overcome what nature did, not wisely but too well.

And when we say illustrations, fellow citizens, we do not refer to something sketched roughly in pencil on the back of an old envelope but to three-dimensional photographs accurately and vividly reproduced, right down to the fillings in the lady's teeth.

We refer to the fine art of lithography which represents colors so vividly that an old-fashioned boy flipping a page feels like backing away in confusion and muttering, through his embarrassment, "Pardon me, I noticed the door wasn't locked so I stepped inside."

There used to be a time in this country when it was a lady's own business how she connived and contrived to achieve the effect of making every prospect pleasing. About the only factual insight into the matter ever gained by a male was the ladies' wear section of the mail order catalogues, which was edited with close restraint and deep respect for the finer sensibilities of a civilization devoted to modesty.

A mere man could coast along indefinitely with a full set of boyish illusions about the contours and dimensions of the opposite sex. Artificiality was the subject of jests, not the standard practice of a whole generation. So much for the illusions of yesteryear.

Whither mankind? If all this ruthless frankness and red-blooded enterprise continues, there won't be a man-child left in North America who won't be able to call off the brand names and selling features of a lady's concealed trappings at the age of 10 as handily as he recites the makes and models of airplanes. Will this be good? Will life be better that way?

We don't know. All we know is that it will be different. Through the eyes of a generation which never knew for a fact there was such a thing as a bustle until one of the contraptions was found in an old trunk in the attic, it's still a shock to realize that the innermost secrets of every lady's boudoir have become basic material for advertising copy writers' blurbs and the candid pictures of cameramen who now gaze brazenly and shamelessly on things once seen, if at all, through keyholes.

Children Still Undernourished

By The Associated Press

VIENNA—An examination of approximately 50 per cent of Vienna's school children by the Vienna health board has revealed that at least 75 per cent of them are undernourished.

In spite of American, Swedish and Swiss programs for providing at least one hot meal daily to each pupil, at least 32 per cent are suffering from "serious" undernourishment, the health board reported.

Barter Agreement

By The Associated Press

BERN, SWITZERLAND—Under a new exchange agreement between Switzerland and Denmark, Switzerland is to deliver textiles, machines, iron and metal products, watches and chemicals. Switzerland will take slaughter cattle, butter, eggs, seed potatoes, fish, hides, straw, hay and straw. Total values were estimated at approximately $35,294,000.

Mothers of Men

The Mothers of Men, by their devotion to their children, and their courage in crises, have gained their fame. They have been eulogized by every poet. Composers have immortalized their memory in the notes of glorious song. Great men have honored them in public declarations.

But to you, there is only one—YOUR MOTHER. Living or dead, honor her today, and every day.

Mothers Plus

A Sermonette

By REV. M. E. HOLLENSEN

Pastor of Emanuel Lutheran Church.

"For this child I prayed, and the Lord hath given me my petition which I asked of him."—I Sam. 1:27.

MOTHERS plus! America's great need today! America stands in need, not of mothers, but mothers plus the fear of God in their hearts, mothers in whose souls there is a reverence and respect and awe for the true God, mothers who know God as Father, and Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior.

On this Mother's Day, may America pray for mothers plus, because:

I. Mothers plus recognize children as a heritage of the Lord.

Hannah, in her desire for a son, turned to the Lord, because she fully realized that children were a special gift from God to man. She was aware of the fact, also, that since children are a heritage of the Lord, they were the property of God, not the final possession of fathers and mothers. Hannah looked upon her Son Samuel, that God gave her as the property of God, and she thus considered herself as being accountable to God for that son. Think what a nation we would have if every mother today were a mother plus, a mother in whose heart there was the fear of God, a fear which impressed upon her a sense of accountability to God for the welfare of her child. Children are not the property of parents to do with as they please.

God shall call every father and mother to account on the final day of judgment for the way in which they have dealt with His property—children. On this Mother's Day, let us pray for mothers plus.

America needs mothers plus, because:

II. Mothers plus train children for God in the things of God.

Hannah "lent" her son unto the Lord, because she wanted Samuel to know the true God, to know that he had a soul, that his soul was eternal, that God had provided a way out of sin, that there was more to living than the brief "now" of life. Mothers with the fear of God in their hearts know their prime duty to their children. Since their children are the sole property of God, Christian mothers realize that God has placed them in His stead to train their children for eternity. If mothers will not do this, who will? Mothers plus have the golden opportunity of reaching the child first. Let the world plan its worst against the soul of the child. The world cannot reach that soul first. The Christian mother has the child, and she has the great opportunity of teaching that soul when that soul is teachable, and at the age when the child will believe anything and everything mother tells it. Mothers plus train children for God in the things of God, and thus they know that it is their duty and happy privilege to tell their children about Christ and Calvary, about His sufferings and death, His vicarious atonement, and about eternal life and everlasting salvation in His name. We pray for mothers plus on Mother's Day. What a nation we would have, if there breathed in every heart the assurance of eternal life in Jesus Christ, and the joy of peace with God through His Son, our Lord!

America needs mothers plus because:

III. Mothers plus serve as living examples of how children ought to walk.

Hannah visited her son in the tabernacle. She became an example to Samuel. In order to show Samuel how he was to live and conduct himself, Samuel had set before him the example of his mother. If he would live as she lived, his life would please God. How all of us realize that children learn as much by example as by precept in the formative years! Would to God we had mothers plus who would set such a Christian example in the home—and fathers too, to be sure—that the children of our age would know as a result of their home training how to treat others and how to get along with their fellowmen! Our generation is lacking in the knowledge of how to treat one another. We have not learned that our fellowmen are just as precious in God's sight as we. And all because there are not enough of mothers plus to go around. On this Mother's Day, let us ask God for more mothers plus, mothers, to be sure, but mothers in whose hearts and lives there is a Savior, Jesus Christ. Then we shall have the solution for our world problems, a solution found in the home, in the person of God-fearing, reverent mothers plus.

Plan Offers Practical Way for Building An "Expansible" Small House

YOUR HOME TODAY and TOMORROW

by W. Wadsworth Wood

The ideas and ultra-modern design of the minimum small house are very aptly illustrated in the accompanying plan and elevation. The principles of the "expansible, or expandable house" are also shown.

The plan suggests two procedures for the prospective home-builder. One is to build the house as shown, and the other to erect only the main bulk of the structure, which incorporates the living-room, kitchen and dining area. The living-room may be equipped with bunks if only the first stage of the building is contemplated. The large fireplace can be counted on to heat the entire house to a comfortable degree for the best part of the year.

The addition of the two bedrooms and bath is a very uncomplicated matter. The roof line of the main structure is followed to take care of the rear bedroom and bath, and a simple shed roof dropped forward to cover the front bedroom. This last addition may be continued down to almost ground-level if the owner has any extravagant ideas about closet space or storage. If the owner has any ideas along the line of future family expansion, another wing may be added to the opposite side of the living room so that the finished house will present two more bedrooms and another bathroom. Incidentally, the two wings will offer a splendid chance for a patio enclosure along the front of the living room, and for a long terrace along the rear of the living room. In short there is every opportunity in the world of arriving at a large, complete home, in easy stages.

There are probably more than a million people in the country who own building sites and who have not been able to build on them for one reason or another. The trend toward basementless or cellarless homes, built on a concrete slab, has opened the door to many of them. The theory that a complete house can be built in stages is a sound one. At first it may be only the nucleus of a home; but with a sound plan for expansion it can be developed into a fine residence.

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSE

—By ROGER C. WHITMAN—

Rough Cellar Floor

Q.: Our concrete cellar floor is rather rough, and I should like to improve its appearance without too much work. Is there a finish that I could brush on that will level off the present rought surface?

A.: Paints and brush coatings will not smooth or level the surface. Floor leveling compounds applied with a trowel will give a smooth surface. An alternative is to have the floor ground down with a terrazzo floor grinding machine.

Heat Resistant Finish

Q. I wish to refinish the solid mahogany top of my dining-table, doing the work myself. I do not like too shiny a finish, but want something fairly resistant to hot plates and liquid. I prefer a varnish.

A.: Remove the old finish down to the bare wood with a prepared paint remover, then wash off all traces of the remover with benzine (be careful of fire!). Finish with two coats of a top quality quick-drying synthetic resign varnish. When the first coat is hard and dry, dull the gloss by rubbing lightly with very, very fine steel wool or sandpaper. Wipe off dust and apply the finish coat. The better stocked paint stores sell a semi-gloss varnish which you can use, if you do not wish a glossy finish.

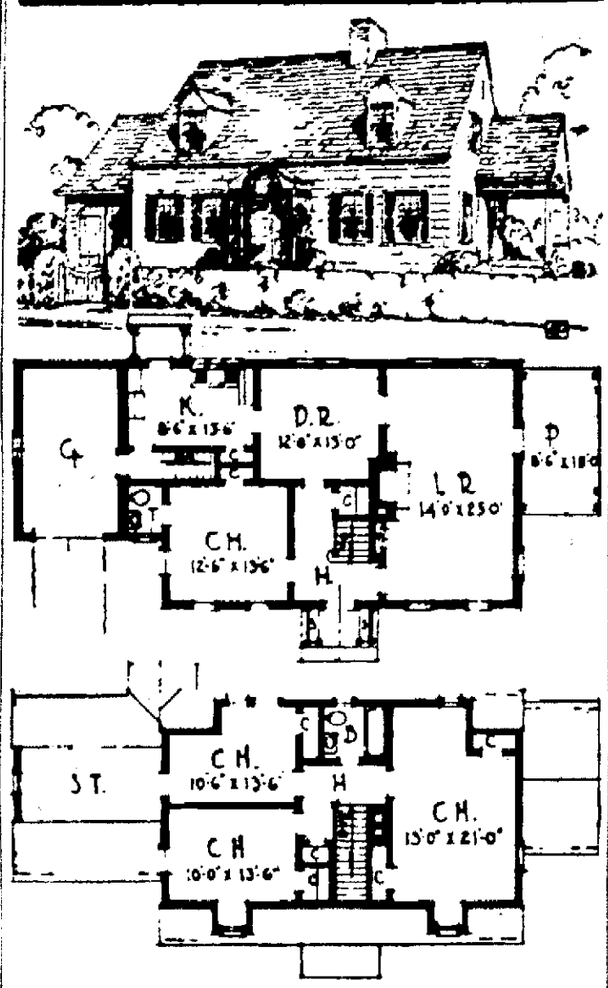
HOMES FOR AMERICANS



By The Associated Press

The perennial Cape Cod cottage holds its popularity in the small house field. This design, No. 602, is by Architect A. Raymond Ellis, Box 191, West Hartford, Conn. It has a frontage of 60 feet including porch and garage, requiring a minimum lot frontage of 75 feet. The main house, without porch and garage, contains 23,400 cubic feet, from which local estimates of cost can be made. Present building costs, exclusive of land, are ranging from 50 to 70 cents and more per cubic foot, depending on local conditions and your specifications. The plan includes a basement under the main house with heating room, laundry and hobby room.

TWO ARRESTED HERE IN THEFT OF CHECKS

Police arrested a woman this morning, who they said admitted forging a signature to cash checks stolen from Bucyrus firms.

She has been going under the assumed name of Mrs. Medford L. Martin, although her name by marriage is Mrs. Mary Millsor, police said. She was arrested at the police station when she went there to see Medford L. Martin, 30, who was arrested on intoxication charges at 1:30 this morning.

Police recognized him as a man wanted by Bucyrus police and immediately got in touch with them.

Bucyrus police officials took Mrs. Millsor to Bucyrus this morning and were to pick Martin up this afternoon. Charges of forgery and robbery will be pressed there.

Checks were reported to be stolen from a Bucyrus factory and she was successful in cashing them at Lord's Jewelry store and Ritz Grill. At the jewelry shop she purchased a watch worth $23.75, and received a balance on the check of $110. At the Ritz she cashed one for $75.

Mrs. Millsor was picked up here about 5 years ago when she had escaped from the Delaware girls' industrial school and she is presently on probation from there, police said she told them.

PROSPECT MAN AT FIRE PARLEY

Keenan Hanley Attends Conference Called by President Truman.

Keenan Hanley, president of the Hanley Engineering Service of Prospect, returned Friday from Washington where he attended the President's Fire Prevention conference in the departmental auditorium May 6, 7, and 8. President Truman, who invited the group to Washington, addressed them on Tuesday, giving an extemporaneous speech on the importance of devising better methods of fire prevention. In his talk the President emphasized the tremendous annual loss of life due to fire in this country, and pointed out the duty of those in places of civic responsibility and key industrial positions to see that an effective fire prevention program is put into effect as soon as possible, Mr. Hanley declared.

Among other speakers were Charles O. Delaney, president of the International Association of Fire Chiefs; Maj. Gen. Harold R. Bull, who spoke on possibility of fire problems resulting from the atom bomb; W. E. Mallalieu, general manager of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, and Gov. Clarence Meddles of West Virginia, who represented state and civic leaders.

In connection with fire prevention, Mr. Hanley pointed out that four boats constructed by the Hanley Service were used by the navy in the recent Texas City disaster. Many small ports, he said, are without fire protection at this time because many of the 103 fireboats built by the company during the war have now been withdrawn from service. One of the aims of the conference was to set up a sufficient fire protection system for such localities, he explained.

VA Rules on Credits In Reserve Training

Army and Navy Reserve personnel will not obtain added credit toward G.I. schooling by reason of being recalled to active duty for 15-day training periods, according to officials at the Veterans Administration Branch Office in Columbus.

VA holds that these training periods do not constitute active duty for purposes of entitlement to increased educational benefits under the G.I. Bill, nor may such periods be counted toward establishment of the qualifying period for educational benefits. This ruling, however, would not apply if the call to duty were for an indefinite period and the veteran served for 30 days or more.

In general, an eligible veteran of World War II is entitled to one year's training or schooling at government expense, plus an additional month's training for every month of active duty up to a maximum of four years.

VA Pays Part of Vet Tuition In Advance

Many non-profit colleges and universities which are faced with a continually growing veteran enrollment now may obtain partial advance payment of tuition from the Veterans Administration.

VA has established a new procedure which permits payment of 75 per cent of the estimated tuition, fees, books and supply costs to schools for veterans studying under the G.I. Bill as soon as the semester's registration is completed and the number of veterans enrolled is known.

The balance of the veteran's educational expenses can be paid either at the end of the semester or at the end of the period for refunding money for those who have dropped out of school. Other schools continue to bill VA.

Delta Theta Phi Aids Veteran Law Students

Members of the Delta Theta Phi law fraternity throughout the country are serving as vocational consultants for veteran law students under terms of an agreement between the fraternity headquarters and the Veterans Administration in Washington, D. C.

Veterans appearing before VA advisement and guidance centers whose potential employment objective is the law profession will be referred to the attorneys only for specialized occupational information not otherwise normally obtainable, VA explained.

Appliances Available To Amputee Veterans

Artificial limbs and other prosthetic and orthopedic devices are available to eligible veterans at government expense. Eligible veterans include those requiring appliances as a result of service-connected injuries or associated conditions not attributed to service, but which are aggravated by the service-connected disabilities.

Appliances available include artificial limbs, artificial eyes, braces, orthopedic shoes, trusses, crutches, canes, stump socks, hearing devices and batteries, elastic stockings or belts, eye lenses and frames, cosmetic appliances necessary because of disfigurement of the face or hands, and special clothing made necessary through wearing an appliance.

Veterans may obtain detailed information concerning the prosthetic and orthopedic appliance program at their nearest VA office.

Women Vets May Get Extra Medical Care

Women veterans are entitled to the same medical care for service disabilities as male veterans. In addition, female veterans may be hospitalized in civilian hospitals if medically emergent, upon authorization by VA, for non-service-connected disabilities but not for pregnancy. In non-emergent cases which are not service-connected, women veterans will be hospitalized in accordance with availability of beds in VA hospitals.

Male veterans with non-service connected disabilities, under existing laws, cannot be treated in private hospitals or by private doctors at federal expense. They are entitled to treatment for non-service connected disabilities in VA hospitals when beds are available.

Recent statistics show a total of 150 women veterans were patients in VA hospitals or in other hospitals under contract to VA in this area, as follows: 114 in Ohio, 28 in Michigan and 8 in Kentucky.

Questions and Answers

Q. Are payments to a beneficiary under G.I. insurance subject to taxation?

A. No. Payments made to a beneficiary after an insured veteran's death are tax exempt, except where invested in property.

Q. I am an honorably discharged World War II veteran and would like to know of what benefit is a guaranteed loan if I purchase a home under the G.I. Bill?

A. The guaranty provides or increases the security you have to offer for a loan by the amount of the guaranty; it tends to induce the lender to lend more nearly the full purchase price of the property and to give you a better rate of interest, and finally four per cent of the amount guaranteed is paid to the lender by VA and is an outright gift to you.

Q. I will complete by present course of study under the G.I. Bill in June. May I later enroll for another course of study under the G.I. Bill?

A. Yes. There is no limit on the number of successive courses you may take under the G.I. Bill, providing you satisfactorily complete each course and still have a balance of eligible time to your credit. However, you must obtain a new certificate of eligibility for each subsequent enrollment.

Cubs Stage Nine-Run Uprising in Fifth To Trounce Springfield 9-5

Edington Notches Third Straight Win for Bruins

By DON C. BURTON

Marion's big-inning Cubs broke out for nine runs in the fifth inning last night at Lincoln park to take the lead from Springfield and win going away in a comedy of errors 9 to 5

John Edington won his third game in as many starts for the Cubs by allowing only one earned run and six hits although walking seven men.

Joe Cingilani, starting hurler for the Giants, went along until the fifth inning before allowing the Cubs to mark up a safety until fans were beginning to tire of a no-hit game until the big Marion fifth

Cingilani Loses Control

Cingilani started his downfall when he lost control and walked the first three men in this stanza, then Gene Bobzean topped them for a double, the first Marion hit and two runs came across

Springfield got three runs in the first session when Meisel got a life on an error by Buddie Gray Galinkin hit safely and Hosler walked to load the bases Goldstone hit to Edington who got to Burbank was wide and Meisel scored Two more runs scored when Hollingshead, playing third instead of Meyers, threw wide of the plate

Look Like Mountain

These three runs looked like a mountain with Cingilani stopping the Cubs' bats although runners were on the bases in three of the first four innings through walks and errors by the Giant fielders

The big inning started when John Edington, Hollingshead and Wiebel walked to load the bases with none away Bobzean then got his double, a hot shot inside third, to plate two runs.

After Seavo grounded out Burbrink walked and Forbes drove in a run with a single Nelson then sent two more Cubs over the plate with a single When Gray was safe on an error the sixth run scored and Cinghani was removed and was replaced by Grammann who hit Edington with a pitch and then walked Hollingshead He was then removed in favor of Ester.

Wiebel Plates Two

Wiebel then singled to score two runs, but was out trying for second when the right fielder fumbled the ball. Bobzean ended the scorer's nightmare and fans' delight when he popped to third

The Giants scored a futile run in the seventh on a hit two walks and an error. Another run was scored in the ninth on a hit, a walk and an error and an infield out

The Cubs will again tangle with the Giants at Lincoln park tonight with John Tate slated for mound duty. The Giant hurler was announced Tate has won one and lost none so far this year. He defeated Newark last Sunday 6 to 3.

City-Bred Rabbits In For Rough Life in '48

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O, May 10—City-bred rabbits are going to have a tough life in 1948—if they're lucky enough to live through the cycle

A plan adopted yesterday by the state conservation and natural resources commission literally signed a death warrant for the great number of Ohio rabbits that infest urban and suburban areas

The project calls for Boy Scouts and other youth groups to trap city rabbits alive during January, turn them over to conservation personnel for food and shelter in rural areas until the hunting season — when they'll be released to provide fodder for sportsmen's shotguns

The plan which will be experimental during 1948, will be made a permanent thing if the furn rabbits have vested upon city gardens and shrubs shows an appreciable reduction next year

Joe DiMaggio had played exactly 1111 games in a Yankee uniform up to this season.

Fabulous Rookie Clint Hartung Turns Out To Be Giant Pitcher

By The Associated Press

Clint Hartung, the fabulous New York Giants rookie who was supposed to throw faster than Bobby Feller and hit harder than Babe Ruth, has turned out to be a pitcher.

During spring training session, extending from Arizona to Honolulu Manager Mel Ott toyed with the idea that big Clint was an outfielder He started the season with him in left field, still under the same mistaken belief.

May Be Best Move

"Maybe this guy is a pitcher after all," Ott mumbled to himself And he sent Clint to the bullpen This may turn out to be his best move of the 1947 season

Bill Voiselle and Mike Budnick had been treated roughly by Boston yesterday, yielding six runs in the first three innings so Ott decided to unveil Mr. Hartung as a big league pitcher. Clint shut out the hard-hitting Braves the rest of the way, allowing only two singles in six innings and striking out five

Johnny Mize's ninth homer and Willard Marshall's third got two of the runs back but the Giants succumbed to Warren Spahn's fancy lefthanded pitching 6-2

Boston's success was rewarded with a first-place tie with Chicago, which thumped Cincinnati 5-1, because Brooklyn fell from the top by losing an 11-inning night game to the Phillies, 6-5.

Feller in 11 innings

Bobby Feller had to work hard to get a decision, going 11 frames before Cleveland topped St Louis 4-3, on Joe Gordon's third hit of the night. Feller had retired the first 12 men in order when the Brownies rallied for three in the fifth to tie the score Ellis Kinder, who replaced the tired Cliff Fannin in the eleventh, was charged with the loss, the seventh in a row for Muddy Ruel's crew

Chicago regained the American league lead from Detroit by nosing out the Tigers 2-1, with Orval Grove handing Hal Newhouser his fourth successive setback. Lefty Hal hasn't won since opening day and Grove hasn't lost yet.

FIRE DAMAGES TWO HOUSES IN GALION

Other Residences Threatened by Blaze.

Special to The Star

GALION, May 10—Fire swept through sections of two doubles houses here yesterday afternoon, causing damage which was expected to mount to several thousand dollars. Several other residences in the first block of East Walnut street were threatened.

The homes had been threatened and some damage caused last Dec. 1, when a disastrous fire destroyed the church and parsonage of First Evangelical United Brethren church.

Two families were ousted from their homes at 125-127 East Walnut street, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schneiker Jr., and Mrs. Genevieve Rogers and son Bruce, while the Henry Poth family at 123 East Walnut street had to seek other shelter, Friday night, because of the dampness in their home.

Firemen were summoned to the home at 1:15 p. m., and it was through their efforts that the other homes in the block were saved.

The blaze burned the roof and ruined the second story of the double occupied by the Schneikers and Rogers, and half of the roof was burned at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Poth. The other side of the double at 121 East Walnuts treet where the family of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Moore reside, received little water damage.

The fire was believed to have started near the chimney in the shingle roof of the Schneiker and Rogers double. It spread rapidly through the top of the house. Most of the household goods were removed from the two residences, but much was damaged from fire and water.

Insurance will cover a portion of the loss on the houses, which are owned by M. L. Hoekstra while residents of the dwellings were reported to have insurance on their furniture.

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

THERE was a look of deep contentment in the eyes of Jack Bickett and his wife, Katharine, as they came into our sitting room with Faith between them, one hand tightly clasped in Jack's fingers, the other in Katharine's.

Faith was taking little dancing steps between them, and her face was radiant.

"Oh Mummy and Daddy," she greeted us. "I've had such a good time! And that dinner! Gee! I had all the things I like—Aunt Katharine remembered—and then I had some new things—pink and green avocado salad, cherry ice cream with little cherries on it, and at the end some little pink candies!"

"After-dinner mints," Katharine explained, "and only one."

"I hope you brought the paregoric bottle back with you," Dicky said gravely.

"What's paregoric?" Faith demanded.

"Something your daddy evidently thinks is still in common medical use," Jack told her gravely, and Katharine spoke quickly.

"I was very careful, Madge, to see that she did not have large helpings, but it was such fun to see her enjoyment of the things Jack thought up—he was the real criminal—that I couldn't help."

"Snit—" Jack began, but changed the word to a strangled cough as Faith's eyes widened gleefully.

"I'll bet you were going to call Aunt Katharine a 'snitcher,' all the same Rod and Jun do me," she said, but my mechanically reproving: "Faith!" was lost in Jack's voluble explanation.

"No, Faith darling, you are mistaken this time," he said. "You see, Aunt Katharine is knitting me a pair of nice warm socks, but she hasn't been doing much at them lately, so I just was going to say, 'It's knitting time,' when I began to cough."

"The wonder is that you didn't strangle to death on that one," Dicky said. "But will you tell me what in the hinges of the hot place is a pink and green avocado salad? I know a 'gator pear when I see one, but—"

"Let me instruct your ignorance," Katharine said. "This salad was made of avocados, sections of pink grapefruit, crisp endive, and tiny scallions, using both the white and green portions. Dressing—mayonnaise, thinned with canned grapefruit juice. Or you could use a French dressing with any modification you like."

"I'm positively drooling," Dicky said, with a grin at me. "When—"

Eyes Held Questions

"Anytime you like," I told him and then turned back to Katharine, whose eyes, I saw, held questions.

"What's the bedtime routine now?" she said. "Same as always?"

"Pretty nearly," I said. "Quick sponge, tooth drill, hair brushing, and prayers, on special occasions such as this one, a bedtime story-reading. She's a big girl now. She dresses and undresses herself, and knows where all her things are."

Katharine's eyes shadowed, and I knew that she was experiencing the pang which comes to every woman's heart—one which goes side by side with her pride and her relief—when her babies become independent of her care.

But Faith came to the rescue and I did not say her nay.

"I haven't seen Aunt Katharine for so long," she wheedled, "and I'd love to be her baby girl again. Mayn't I be excused from undressing myself just this once? That is, if Aunt Katharine doesn't mind?"

"No, I don't mind, darling," Katharine told her quietly, but her eyes, on mine, held tense pleading.

"Yes, Aunt Katharine may undress you tonight," I said, and found that I had difficulty in getting the words out because of my constricted throat muscles.

Will Show Everything

"Then, let's go!" Faith caught at the hand of the childless couple, and drew them to the door which led to her own bedroom. "I'll show you where everything is."

"We'll come back when she's safely tucked away for the night," Katharine assured us, but it was nearly an hour before she and Jack came through the door again, and this time the look in their eyes was one of satisfied longing.

"She's not asleep yet, although near it," Katharine said. "She's waiting for you two to come in and kiss her good-night."

Then she drew a long breath. "You cannot know, you blessed people," she said huskily, "what you have done for us tonight. We never will forget it."

"Never," Jack echoed. "Never!"
